an untitled poem

Anonymous

Air past its sell-by date expired soil
not swimming
dead in the water
stuck in limbo
lying in-state
lay-by breakfast
fast-food vomit
open-air concert
paying through the nose
a bird's-eye view
of a clearfelled landscape
dead-end job
suspended in time
crash-course in love
marriage in outerspace real-estate double-yolker battery-egg to free-range twins
with restricted living

solar-powered electric chair

eco-friendly execution
greenwash propaganda
cardboard funeral
for an ethical death
wind-powered hearse
is the direction forward a readily complying crimestopper in the age of speed-dialing your fingers are only millimetres away from the SatNav to help you locate your grave they say every screen opens up yet another window of opportunity (all eyes fixed)

another nail in the coffin that seals/steals
your imagination.
